Dalit panel visits Bhagana

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

HISAR, MAY 26
A team of the National Commission for Scheduled Castes (NCSC) today visited Bhagana village where some Dalit families have left their homes alleging their persecution by Jats and have been camping outside the mini-secretariat for the past six days.

The team led by a senior investigator in the Chandigarh office of the NCSC, RK Sharma, met a cross-section of people in the village and recorded their statements on the present imbroglio.

The NCSC officials went to the piece of land near the houses of Dalits, which has become a bone of contention between the two communities in the present mess and met the village sarpanch, a former sarpanch and some others.

The 80-odd families, who left their homes on Monday, had alleged that they were ostracised by Jats and a shopkeeper who sold them grocery items was made to pay a heavy fine.

To test the veracity of these allegations, the team also met a grocery shop owner and recorded his statement.

Sharma also met Dalit families camping outside the mini-secretariat and recorded their statements.

“I am not authorised to speak to the Press. I will submit my report to the commission,” Sharma said, when mediapersons wanted to know his findings.

Meanwhile, the Bahujan Samaj Party today demanded registration of a criminal case under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act against the persecutors.

Bajrang Indal, district spokesperson of the BSP, alleged that the authorities had been taking the incident very lightly leading to resentment among the families.

“When the authorities have not been arresting Jats who stopped trains, torched a judge’s vehicle and attacked the police and government servants during the reservation stir despite orders of the high court, it is foolish on our part to expect that they will feel the pain and agony of Dalits who have been forced to flee their homes,” Indal said sarcastically.

He alleged that four more Dalit families, who were coming to the mini-secretariat with their animals after leaving their homes last evening, were stopped from reaching here and their male members were taken away by the police.
Disabled get a new department

statesman news service

NEW DELHI, 26 MAY: The social justice and empowerment ministry has set up a new department of disability to coordinate the functioning of various programmes being implemented for the welfare of the country's over two crore differently-abled population.

So far, the ministry has had a disability division to supervise programmes for people with disabilities. The new department is functioning since 14 May and is headed by a secretary.

As per the 2001 Census, there were over two crore persons with disability in the country, which is 2.1 per cent of the total population. While 74.80 per cent of these people live in rural areas, the remaining 25.20 per cent live in urban and semi-urban locations. The literacy rate of disabled people was estimated at 49.31 per cent, while 34.54 per cent of the total disabled population was engaged in some employment or the other.

The NSSO 2002 survey showed that only a small percentage of persons with disabilities was employed, and had studied up to higher secondary or above. This meant that there was a huge task left of providing appropriate education and training to this population to make it employable. The government recognised that the effective inclusion of disabled people in the present workforce was a pre-requisite for inclusive growth.

The government has invited all stakeholders to come up with innovative ideas for generating livelihood options for the disabled people. A lot more could be achieved if the private sector joined the government's efforts in the field. A new legislation for empowerment of persons with disability in harmony with the UN Convention has been drafted. To generate awareness on employment opportunities, a web portal has been launched to help the candidates build links with local employers, and other stakeholders for training opportunities. The portal will also have online training programmes to enhance the skills of the disabled.

NEW DELHI: The Central Information Commission has directed the Public Information Officer of the AIIMS Examination Section to provide an appellant information pertaining to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and OBC students after obtaining it from the Recruitment Cell if required.

In response to four out of the seven queries posed by Amardeep Gulati, a resident of Shahdara, the PIO had stated that the information was available with the Recruitment Cell. Mr. Gulati had demanded to know "on which basis did the OBC, SC and ST candidates take seats of general candidates on their merit in announced result?" and "the marks of high school, BHC(J) nursing diploma and their domicile state of the above mentioned candidates". He had also asked "how many general seats are captured by the OBC, SC and ST in year 2008, 2009 and 2010?" and the list of different categories in the related class and finally "whether the capturing of general seats by the OBC, SC and ST students have been done at any particular exam centre?"

In reply, the PIO had stated that the question "related to the recruitment cell".

However, the PIO had provided more details on the other three queries. To "what are the checking measures taken for the exam?", the appellant had been told that "merit list is made according to the addition of 90 marks multiple choice question and 10 marks interview".

Query on cheating

Since Mr. Gulati had also posed a query on cheating stating that if "gangs can be active in post graduate exam of AIIMS then contingency for the same can be felt in its sister grade II-2001 exam" and asked what steps had been taken by the Vigilance Department regarding the matter, AIIMS had also spelled out the steps.

And to another question on "what is the reason why obtained marks are not mentioned on the marks sheet of the students along with their grade?", the premier medical institute had answered that "information will be available on the website" but only after the selection procedure was completed.

In his order on Thursday, Information Commissioner Shalosh Gandhi allowed the appeal of Mr. Gulati and directed the PIO to provide the information on the four queries as also the tabulation sheet sought by the appellant before June 15.
